

RUN A BUSINESS FROM HOME

Andrew J. Spencer

Legal Notice:

The author and publisher of this book have used their best efforts in preparing this book. The author and publisher make no representation or warranties with respect to the accuracy, applicability, fitness, or completeness of the contents of this book. The information contained in this book is strictly for information and educational purposes. Therefore, if you wish to apply ideas contained in this book, you are taking full responsibility for your actions.

The author and publisher disclaim any warranties (express or implied), merchantability, or fitness for any particular purpose. The author and publisher shall in no event be held liable to any party for any direct, indirect, punitive, special, incidental or other consequential damages arising directly or indirectly from any use of this material, which is provided "as is", and without warranties.

As always, the advice of a competent professional should be sought. The author and publisher do not warrant the performance, effectiveness or applicability of any sites listed or referred to in this book. Any links are for information purposes only and are not warranted for content, accuracy or any other implied or explicit purpose.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Changing Things for the Better
Choosing Your Business
Deciding to Work From Home
Finding the Information to Run Your Business
Finding the Perfect Work at Home Opportunity
Have Fun While Working
Impact of Working from Home
Opportunities for Working from Home
Quit and Become a Consultant
Refrain from Getting Distracted
Scam Alerts
Scheduling Your Home Based Business Time
Take Some Time for Yourself
Take Your Time Before Quitting
Things are Tough All Over
Things You Might Need to Work From Home
Which Life Would You Want
Why Not Work From Home
Work from Home with No Money or Skills
Working For a Home Based Company

Changing Things for the Better

Everyone out there wants to have a lot of money, respect of those around them, and a job that they absolutely love doing on a day to day basis. What people end up with is almost enough money to pay all their bills, debtors calling them constantly, and a job that they wish would fall off the face of the earth and never come back. People's dreams are constantly coming into contact with reality and being flattened like a trailer in a tornado. It's not fair and never will be, but that is how life works unless you do something to change it.

You see, there are things in your life that you can change that will make it all worth the effort. You have to WANT to change these things, though, in order for it to work for you. If you are too heavy, you can go on a diet and get some exercise to lose weight. It's hard work, but if you stick with it you can see a change in a short period of time. If you live in an area of town that is going downhill and starting to look like a slum, then you can try to find another place to live.

If you hate your job and you aren't making enough money, you can always try to find another job. Of course, in today's economy and with high unemployment rates you might not see that as a feasible option for you right now. The truth is you can find a job that you love doing on a daily basis, and you can do it from home if you want to. This means that you can save all the money you would be spending on commuting and charge your own rates for what you are doing as well.

You will have to find something that you are good at and figure out a way of getting people to actually pay you for that work. You will also need to do some research to make sure that what you want to do is actually needed, especially online. This doesn't mean that local people won't find you useful, and you can make money that way too, but having a broader circle of people to advertise to will end up making you more money later on down the road.

You shouldn't give up your current job before you are at least ready to make money with something at home. People all over the world are having financial issues, and quitting a job that is a steady paycheck before you have everything ready to go at home might end up being suicidal if you aren't careful. There is no guarantee that your home business will be successful, and that steady paycheck can at least supplement you until you are making the money you deserve to make. These things need to be considered before jumping the gun, but a little research in your spare time can go a long way to finally quitting that job you hate so much.

Choosing Your Business

Choosing the right home business for you is something that will require a decent amount of research. There are quite a few things that you need to consider before jumping into the work at home arena, including what kind of business you are going to operate. The first thing you should decide is whether you are going to work from home with another company or start your own company by yourself. The easiest thing to choose is running your own company, however, that will take a lot of resources that you might not have at this time.

Starting your own company takes a lot of hard work and involves a lot of money that you might not have handy. If you decide to go with this choice, then you are going to need to figure out what kind of company you have the skills to run. You are also going to need to have an attorney available to help you out with legal questions and an accountant to help you figure out how to do your taxes. Having an attorney and an accountant on hand will cost you even more money so make sure you have the funds to accommodate them.

If you are planning on working for another company, which is much easier than starting one from scratch, you will need to figure out what it is that you are skilled in. A lot of companies that offer work at home positions will train you for the job, so looking for one of those will probably be the easiest for you if you don't have any experience. The one thing you have to remember is to never pay any company for the privilege of working for them. Companies that make you pay them a fee to get started are scams and not worth the effort.

Once you have decided what you are going to be doing, whether running your own company or working for an existing company, you will need to figure out your working space. If you already have a home office, then you shouldn't have to worry about this too much; but if you don't have an office or spare bedroom available, then you will need to figure out where it is you are going to set up your computer so that you have the room to work.

There are a lot of advantages to working from home but it does take a certain mindset to accomplish success. You have to be able to motivate yourself so that you are able to get the work done on time as well. This is one of the hardest things for most people to understand. When you are working from home you don't have a boss that is expecting you to show up at a certain time, although some work at home businesses will have you on a schedule. Working a set schedule can make working from home much easier for you to get used to as well, and is a very good place to start.

Deciding to Work From Home

One of the most important decisions you can ever make in your life is what kind of career you are going to have. Many people out there plan their career from the time they are in high school and work diligently to make sure they have the education that they need to make their dreams come true. There are also people out there that haven't had the opportunity, for whatever reason, to get the education they needed to work in the field they have always dreamt of working in. These people will, then, take whatever menial jobs they can in order to make ends meet and survive.

Once you fall into that rut of menial labor and crap jobs that never pay you enough to save money for the things you want in life, you will end up staying there quite a while. You have to make the decision yourself to break the cycle and do something that is different from what you know. Some people will take on extra jobs in order to get the money they need to go back to school and find a better career while others will adjust their lifestyle to fit the amount of money they have coming in.

There are still others out there that decide to take things in their own hands and start their own home-based business. These people have the skills that will get them success, and they are motivated enough to make sure their dreams will eventually come true. Even if they don't have the financial options that they might need right away, they will still be successful because they plan ahead and make things work on their own. These are the types of people that will do whatever is needed to make sure they are making enough money for their families.

Working from home can be highly rewarding if you are willing to put the effort into making it work for you. You are going to find times when you are pulling long hours and not getting many days off when you start out, but that is part of the appeal of working from home. You don't have to worry about doing those long hours and then commuting home only to go back to the office in a few hours. You can also take breaks when you need to and that is a great bonus for anyone these days.

Working from home isn't like you see on the television. You aren't going to be walking around in your PJ's looking like you just got out of bed. In fact, if that is how you are dressed while you are working, then you aren't taking your career very seriously. Just because no one else is around you doesn't mean that you have to let yourself go and become unprofessional in your dressing habits. Maintaining your professional attitude is the key to having your home-based business become a success and is something that you should strive for on all levels.

Finding the Information to Run Your Business

If you have basic computer knowledge, then there is nothing stopping you from starting your own home business. The great thing about working from home with a computer is that you can find all the information you need to make sure that your business is a success. No matter what kind of business you are trying to do, there is information available online that will make you a better business owner, and help you get the success and money that you have always deserved. You just need to find that information so that you can use it.

Search engines are one of the most popular ways of finding information online. In fact, just about everyone in the world that owns a computer will use a search engine at least once a day to find some kind of information. This means that you can take your basic understanding of a subject, search for it online and get an even better understanding so that you can turn that knowledge into a money-making business. All you have to do is start searching around until you find the information you need.

This type of research will almost guarantee your success in the long run.

It doesn't matter what kind of business you are trying to start up, either. Any business that you can think of has already got information posted on the internet about it. You can use this information, and those websites, to focus your business in a direction that those other people may not have been able to think of. In fact, think about the one website you use the most every day and consider all the things you wished were on it. Now, you just have to create a website that has those missing aspects and get it noticed.

Once you have an idea and you find the information you need to make it work, you just have to put your time and knowledge to work. You can create any kind of business you could possibly think of if you have the knowledge of how that business works. People are creating websites all over the internet and sharing information about how other people can do the same thing. You just have to be one of those people that takes it seriously and does what needs to be done to make it work for you.

If you can find the information and put it together in a way that people will pay you for your knowledge, then you are an online business opportunist. You might want to start writing eBooks about the information you have found and selling it to others that might be looking for the same thing. Creating an online business is the easy part, though; getting the word out about your business is a whole different set of hassles. But that doesn't mean you can't make it work. You found the information to get your business off the ground. Now, you just have to find the information to market it to the people that would be looking for you.

Finding the Perfect Work at Home Opportunity

Financial problems are running rampant these days. Everyone is having a hard time finding the money they need to make sure their bills are paid and they can still afford food. In fact, the price of gas has gone up dramatically over the last few years, making it almost impossible to use a vehicle anymore. If you have found yourself in a situation where you can't afford to drive to work, let alone pay for things like childcare, then maybe it's time you start thinking of finding a work at home job.

There are plenty of businesses online that are looking for motivated people to work from home. For most of them, all you will need is a computer and the ability to work a minimum of hours every week from the comfort of your own home. Most of these companies will train you for everything you will be doing and you can make some decent money. The best thing is that most online companies don't take taxes out of your pay, and that means you will get more money every week. If that sounds like something you might be interested in, then it's time to search online for your new career.

One thing you need to be aware of is that there are a lot of companies that try to scam people out of money. These companies will usually require you to pay a certain amount of money as a registration fee upfront. When you come across companies like this, you should leave and find something else. There is a good chance that you won't be making enough money to even cover the cost of the registration fees that you had to pay to get hired. There are plenty of other options available for you that won't require payment in advance.

If you are stuck trying to find a business you can work from home with, you should try some of the forums that are available. There are numerous work at home forums available online that will help you in finding the perfect career for you and your needs. These forums have posts from people that are already veterans in the work at home arena, and they know all the tips and secrets to make this a successful decision for you. All you have to do is ask them, and they can point you in the right direction.

Working from home can end up saving you a lot of money in the long run.

You may not be too thrilled with the amount of pay you are getting to start out with, but that will go up the longer you stay with a certain company. You can also get multiple jobs that you can work at the same time if you really need the money. This is definitely the most flexible way of working that anyone has ever known, and you will be free to live your life the way you want to once you get your feet back under you.

Have Fun While Working

Few things in life can bring you the happiness that working from home can. Even when you go into the office and someone has brought in a basket of mini muffins, you still won't get the same amount of comfort and happiness that you can get from home. The best thing is that you can actually work right from your bed if you have a laptop. Now, how many offices do you know of that will let you bring a bed into your cubicle so that you can recline back with your feet up while you are working?

Now, you might be able to find a job that lets you wear casual clothing, or allows you to decorate your cubicle and such things as that. Those are becoming fairly common these days unless you work in a high rise office building for a multinational company. But being able to wear whatever you want, whenever you want, while working in your own home has got to be at the top of the list when it comes to employment. You will even get the chance to watch television, and you can listen to your music instead of that junk they play in the elevator.

How many times have you been at work and had friends show up for the afternoon? That's right; the answer to that is never because if your friends showed up and stayed for the afternoon you would probably be fired. If you are working at home, you won't get fired simply because you are the boss. That means your friends can come over anytime they want as long as you are getting at least some of your work done. You still have to make an effort to do your work, but at least you can have fun while you are working.

Fun and work are usually not two words that you hear together very often. But working from home gives you the ability to have fun while you are working and that will beat out an office job any day. While you might get to have some fun conversations while standing around the water cooler or in the break room at lunch, working from home will let you have fun in different ways. Just think of the last time you wanted to play a board game at work and how well that worked out for you.

If you don't mind the daily grind of working in an office where you can't have any fun, then that is your choice. However, if you are looking for something that will give you the opportunity to have fun while you are working then working from home is the only answer for you. It takes a bit of work to get things started, but once you are up and running on your own, you will see firsthand why so many people around the country are starting to understand the importance of having fun while working. Give it a try and see how much stress you can unload while working from home.

To continue reading, you can get a FREE copy of the full eBook here:

Get the Full version eBook here